Young Men Cannot Be Correctly Fitted In Older Men's Suits

The young fellow from nineteen to twenty-five who wears, we will say, a size thirty-six coat, cannot be correctly fitted in the same size designed for an older man. The young man is built on different lines; his figure has not filled out and assumed the older man's form; his proportions are not what they will be a few years later; and, therefore, he requires clothing especially designed for men of his age.

We recognize this important fact, and buy young men's clothing from makers who specialize this class of manufacture, and who have become experts in their specialty.

Efforts are being made to induce the L. & N. Railroad Co. to rebuild the L. & N. station, recently destroyed by fire. ### Mr. Floyd Transferred.

Mr. H. H. Floyd, of Georgetown, formerly manager of the local telephone exchange, has been transferred to Paris, and with his family has moved to that city. Mr. Floyd went from this city to Georgetown about ten months ago, and his removal to Paris is a rapid and deserved promotion. He has many friends in Richmond, who will be pleased to learn of his success.

Contract Let.

The contract for the erection of the new Christian church has been awarded to Messrs J. C. and T. S. Todd, contractors of this city, their bid, $35,490.00, being the lowest and best bid offered of half dozen or more bids submitted. These figures do not, however, represent the entire cost of the enterprise. There will be other expenses such as salary of supervisor, furnishing the church and many other expenses and the total cost will be not far short of $40,000.00. The building will be turned over to the contractors about the 15th of this month and work will be begun immediately. It is expected that the building will be completed and ready for occupancy about January 1, 1913, or soon thereafter.

Son of Former Madisonian Accidentally Killed.

Raymond Cecil Taylor, aged fourteen years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Turner Taylor, of Glenavon, Illinois, formerly of this county, died Sunday, April 28, from a bullet wound, inflicted accidentally by his younger brother, Russell Taylor, eleven years of age. Russell was the set of shooting at a target, when the elder stepped in front of the gun as it was discharged, the bullet entering his neck and penetrating the vertebrae, grazing the jugular artery and severing the spinal cord, resulting in death a few hours later. Mr. Turner Taylor, father of deceased, was a son of the late Owen Taylor, of Union City, this county, and brother of Shelby and Thomas Taylor, of Madison. Many other relatives of the grief-stricken parents reside here, and the sympathy of these and a host of friends is extended them in this deplorable accident.

Dangerously Injured By Horse.

Mr. A. S. Minter is in a very critical condition at his home on the Boonesboro pike as the result of being kicked in the breast by a horse. Friday last Mr. Minter went into a stall occupied by his family mare and affectionately tapping her on the hip was kicked by the animal, both feet striking him in the chest. His condition is very alarming and grave doubts are entertained regarding the outcome of the injury.

Burglars Enter Country Residence.

At a late hour, Thursday night, burglars were discovered in the residence of Mr. Brutus White, on Barnes Mill pike, and but for the fact that Mr. White's daughter discovered the presence in the house of these marauders, many valuable and cherished articles would have been missing. An entrance to the building was gained by means of a ladder, which was placed at one of the second story windows. Hardly had an entrance been gained before Miss White was aware of the intruders. She gave the alarm and the midnight visitors made a hasty retreat. Capt. V. G. Mullikin, on request of Mr. White, came here Friday with his celebrated blood hounds, "Queen" and "Pearl," and they were taken immediately to the residence and placed on the trail of the burglars. This was followed through the fields to the pike, where the dogs lost the scent.

Blue Grass League Opens.

Favored by the most ideal weather, the Blue Grass Base Ball season opened in this city Wednesday afternoon, and the occasion was observed, with all the ceremony and pomp usually accorded the advent of this great sport. The parade was the largest ever witnessed in this city on a similar occasion. Gov. McCreary was given a hearty ovation when he was escorted to the stand by President of the Pioneers, Ed. Blanton, and President Wm. Neal, of the Blue Grass League. As the Governor took his position in the box Miss Elizabeth Blanton presented him with a huge bouquet of carnations to which he responded with a brief speech.

Judge Park disposed of his property by leaving the estate to his wife during her life, after which it is to be equally distributed among his legal heirs.

Constantly At Your Service.

The CLIMAX ventures the assertion that there are not in Richmond a dozen patrons of the Telephone Company who are aware of the number of young ladies whose attentions are constantly employed in behalf of those who have occasion to use the telephone lines. Nor have the patrons of this great public service any conception of the great amount of tedious labor connected with the duties of the "hello girls." There are times when immediate connection is very necessary and those who are not served, possibly as readily as they may expect, become vexed and beneath their teeth breath something which would not, at least, be becoming to utter. Yet, if the patrons of the telephone line would take a few moments to visit the exchange, they would readily understand that there are others who are seeking the use of these lines and the time and attention of every young lady on duty is taxed to the limit in their endeavor to serve the public promptly and efficiently. Below we give a list of the young ladies connected with the local exchange. Bookkeeper, Miss Kittle Lynch; Chief Operator, Miss Zeulah Oliver; Toll Operator, Miss Anne Oliver; local operators, Misses Sue Bolton, Myrtle Ballard, Katie Gumbert, Gertrude Ryann, Nannie Davis, Maggie Tyree, Ellen Powers, Laura Shearer, Curran, and Tullie Ballard. A more accommodating and efficient set of operators, we are certain, could not be found, and to these young ladies, the public should feel at least grateful for their efforts to serve faithfully in their respective capacities.

Deaths

Mr. Lewis C. Terrill died at his home on Fifth street Wednesday morning, after a protracted illness, aged twenty-three years. Deceased was a son of the late L. C. Terrill, of Kingston, this county, and nephew of County Clerk Robt. Terrill, of this city. He had been in poor health for more than a year, his illness being due, it is alleged, to a fall received while engaged in repairing a telephone line. Mr. Terrill was a young man of exemplary habits, and by strict attention to business was promoted many times by the East Tennessee Telephone Co., in whose employ he had been since moving to Richmond, and at time of his death held a responsible and lucrative position with that corporation. A bright future was in store for Lewis Terrill, had he been spared to complete the allotted span of life, but another mystery has been added in his taking away just as life's horizon seems brightest. He is survived by his mother, two sisters and one brother. His funeral services were conducted at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Dora Terrill, on Fifth street, Thursday afternoon by Rev. E. B. Barnes, followed by interment in the Richmond cemetery.

The Lexington Herald of Saturday contained the following notice of the death of Mrs. B. C. Hagerman, who formerly lived in Richmond, her husband being at the time of their residence here president of Madison Female Institute: A telegram at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon to Mrs. Alexander Campbell of this city, brought the distressing news of the death in Chicago of her daughter, Mrs. Mamie Campbell Hagerman, wife of President B. C. Hagerman, of Campbell-Hagerman College in this city. The announcement of the death of Mrs. Hagerman came as a distant shock to the family and friends of this widely known church woman and educator. Mrs. Hagerman was for Chicago three weeks ago for the purpose of having an operation of a more or less serious nature performed. She was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where the operation was performed and was apparently so successful that she was able to leave the hospital on the third day and took up her residence at the Auditorium Hotel, whither she was taken in an automobile by her daughter, Mrs. Halford Watson, a resident of Chicago. The rapidity with which Mrs. Hagerman recovered, however, apparently proved her undoing, as her physicians found that Mrs. Hagerman was telegraphed for and was at her bedside when death came. Mrs. Hagerman was one of the most widely known women in Central Kentucky. She was a daughter of the late Alexander Campbell, and granddaughter of Alexander Campbell, founder of the Christian Church, and former president of Bethany College, West Virginia. She leaves her husband, Prof. B. C. Hagerman and one daughter, Mrs. Halford Watson, of Chicago.

May Day At The Normal.

May Day dawned bright and beautiful and early in the morning the campus presented a scene of activity which indicated that something out of the ordinary was about to happen. The program had been carefully and elaborately planned and not a hitch occurred in the execution of the arrangements. A general invitation had been issued to the interested public to share in the celebration and the crowd was there to the number of 1500 students, parents and friends. The morning hours till 10:30 were devoted to inspection of exhibits and class work in the Model School. Then came the chapel program of dramas given by the children of the grades and the Normal School. At 12:30 the throng gathered around the campus stage to partake of the delicious lunch of substantial, cakes, ice and coffee. The feast was served with ease and expedition, the guests having been assigned in companies of fifty to the plots marked off and numbered in a semi-circle to the front of the platform. At two o'clock students formed in line for the May Day procession and it was a gala pageant. The queen of the Review class was borne at the head of the procession. She was arrayed in a gorgeous gown of yellow, decorated in robes of gold and yellow flowers. The Model School queen, Miss Elizabeth Tuxton, was in a gala attire with blossom and flying streamers, and followed by willing subjects. Then came the Burlesque queen of the Junior Class. She was dressed in mackintosh and rode on a litter with numerous belongings piled around. Virginia Culbertson was the choice of the Senior Class and right royally lay her on a litter of green and white, they following with waving banners in the class colors. The school queen, the real monarch, Miss Florence Dunnett, received the parade from the steps of Ruric Nevel Roark Hall joining after all had passed and walking between the lines to the platform. She was lovely in diaphanous draperies of white and carried a huge bouquet of carnations. When all had reached the place of assembly, the exercises of the afternoon began. These consisted of beautiful floral drills by the children of the different grades, a declamation by Miss Miree McDougale and a Pro-Shakespearean Morality Play, "Any Time," given effectively by Prof. Stott's English Class. The ball game between Millersburg and Eastern closed the day's program.

In the evening the roll call by counties and the able addresses by Hon. Barksdale Hamlet, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Prof. Grinstead, were interspersed with music by Prof. Koch, Supr. Ireland, of Stanford, and Miss Miree McDougale.

The whole day's program was replete with interest, the weather perfect, and everything combined to make a delightful occasion.

On Tuesday evening, a banquet was given in Sullivan Hall by the President and Faculty of the Normal, to the visiting Superintendents, President Crabbe acting as toastmaster. The building was attractively decorated with green foliage and red carnations. A delicious menu was served and the following toasts were given:

Miss Partridge, of the Normal, opened the program with a toast to the "Leaders of Kentucky," in verse. She was followed by Mr. Rice S. Eubank, editor of the Southern School Journal, who described "Public Opinion" as "fickle and tyrannical."

Prof. Renesse Gilmore Stott, who came last, made a forceful appeal for the teaching profession in "They gotta quit kickin my dawg aroun'."

Dean Anna Hamilton, of the State University, then spoke on the "County Superintendent," setting forth the facts that he holds the most important educational office in the State.

Spoke of the value of maturity and experience in a teacher, reinforcing his opinions with quotations from Rabbin Ben Ezra.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, President of the Kentucky Educational Association, gave a vision of coming school conditions as contrasted with those of the past, her subject being "The Old and New."

Judge J. A. Sullivan, the local Regent, closed the program with a toast to Kentucky, in which he declared that nowhere in his travels in this country or abroad had he seen sons that were superior to hers and in few places had he seen their equals.

Fine Specimens.

Mr. W. F. Jackson, young brother of County Attorney O. P. Jackson, was a pleasant caller at Cox & Cram's office Monday. Young Jackson has just returned from Detroit, Michigan, where he has been in the employ of Newcomb-Edicott Co. Mr. Jackson is one of the youngest artists possibly in the country, who is making considerable capital out of his profession. His duty with the above company is to draw the figures and styles for fashion plates such as are published in the leading magazines and periodicals of the country. Mr. Jackson possesses great talent in this particular line and his work is rapidly forging to the front.
